James Nelson is a Pump and Filtration Product Sales Manager with The Rain Bird Corporation, a position he has held for the last three years. Prior to working at Rain Bird, James was an Irrigation contractor, Operations Manager for a large regional irrigation company, Water Manager, business owner, and father to 3 and step-father to 4 more. He considers being a father and dad to be his greatest accomplishment. James has spent 30 years in the irrigation industry, starting out as a laborer on a residential irrigation crew, moving to a commercial installation crew, then to foreman, supervisor, and then manager over the course of 5 years. He then became a licensed contractor and started his own company where he focused on large community maintenance and repair.
